RESEARCH IN PROGRESS

OTHER INNOVATIVE AND CREATIVE ACTIVITIES

I engage fully in academic debate through the medium of conference papers, lectures, presentations and seminars. I recently organised international symposia on Networked Collaborative Learning in Higher Education for the European Educational Research Association Conference in Edinburgh (2000) and Lille (2001). I presented a paper of the use of Interactive Multi-media in educational research training at the American Educational Research Association Annual Meeting in New Orleans (in April 2000), and another long paper was presented at the 2002 AERA meeting (again in New Orleans) that was highly rated by referees (scoring 4.3 out of 5). My recent paper at the Ed Media Conference in Hawaii was selected as outstanding by the conference referees.

An edited selection of recent creative and innovative contributions to teaching and learning is given below:
